May Exclude Scientists In Monkey Law Case

State Would Not Permit Them to Testify That Evolution Does Not Conflict With Biblical Story of Origin of Man—Two William Jennings Bryans Talk for State—Double Meaning of Darwinism.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dayton, Tenn., July 16.—The Scopes trial reached its great crisis today when the state's attorneys offered a motion to exclude all scientific testimony touching on the relation of evolution to the divine origin of man.

The motion provoked an immediate outburst from counsel for state and prosecution. It followed an effort by the defense to recall Professor Maynard M. Metcalf, scientific expert, to continue his testimony about evolution. The jury remained excluded and the lawyers made their arguments solely to the judge.

Clarence Darrow projected the issue by calling Metcalf and asking his what was the "evolution theory on the origin of man." It was the principal "catch" question of the trial and Metcalf was ready to say that science did not deny the divine origin of humans. But Attorney General A. Thomas Stewart would not let him reply, interposing strenuous objection. A debate followed and Judge Ranslow finally ordered the scientist off the stand, to hear arguments from counsel.

Bryan's Son Comes to Front.

The argument brought William Jennings Bryan, Jr., son of the Commoner, into the trial for the first time. Young Bryan figured for the state's motion to exclude the scientist.

Darrow sought first to have the court hear the scientists before rendering any decision. His purpose was to have the scientific testimony broadcast to the world, even though it never reaches the ears of the 12 men who must sit in judgment on Scopes.

Stewart renewed his objection. "It is up to the jury to determine whether the lessons taught by the Bible," Stewart added, "that is the only issue before the jury."

Young Bryan followed. He probably was the best dressed man in the room, wearing gray striped flannels with a blue coat.

"The danger of putting on the scientific witnesses," said Bryan, "is that the jury may substitute the opinions of these scientists for their own."

Bryan revealed the state's hand, for it wants the case decided by a jury all of those members have admitted knowing "almost nothing" about evolution.

"The courts should not receive opinionated evidence when it touches the issue involved," Bryan continued. "The courts are agreed upon that."

Bryan, Senior, Moves Up.

William Jennings Bryan, the father, left his seat behind the state counsel table and moved up beside his son. The Commoner sat fanning himself, listening intently to his boy. The son, however, showed none of the famous Bryan eloquence. His arguments were voiced in a conversational tone, without gestures and while standing still.

"To admit this testimony," Bryan concluded, "would be to substitute a trial by experts for a trial by jury and to announce to the world that this jury is too stupid to determine the simple issue of this case."

Install Fans When Bryan Stops.

When Bryan finished, a short recess was taken so balliffs could install a number of electric fans.

During the recess, Dudley Field Malone announced to the press tables that the young Bryan's speech was a "withdrawal of the elder Bryan's challenge for a duel to death between evolutionists and Christians."

Danger in Demonstrations.
When court resumed, Judge Ranslow warned all spectators not to make a demonstration during arguments by counsel.

"I don't want any applause for two reasons," said the court. "First, it is improper, and second, this balliff is heavily burdened and while I don't want to alarm anyone, I don't want any vibrations caused which would shake the building and I would have a heavy outburst of applause might cause trouble."

Defense Opposes State's Attitude.

Arthur Garfield Hayes began the defense's argument. He declared the state wanted both judge and jury to decide whether evolution was taught by Scopes without "even knowing what is evolution."

"If Scopes had taught that man descended from a monkey," said Hayes, "he would not be guilty of violating this law. That is the fact. The fact is that man and monkey are of the same order of animals. The first order, under every classification of science. And the law says that to be guilty, Scopes must have taught that man descended from a lower order of animals. Scopes

Four Cars Turn Over On Milton Road.

Four cars skidded on the turn at the Church in Milton this morning and turned over. A woman occupant of one of the cars was injured. The roadway was wet at the time and excess speed on the turn and down grade caused the first car to turn over. The other cars were following.

Severe Warning Issued.
New York, July 16.—A storm warning to small craft between Norfolk, Va., and Newport, N.H., was issued today by the weather bureau. A disturbance centered at Quebec, and the storm will cause strong westerly winds this afternoon, shifting to southwest tonight.

Mother Victim of "Unloaded" Gun

Tragedy Occurred Less Than an Hour After Son's Return from Month's Vacation Trip—Son Held for Homicide.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, July 16.—"Mother! Mother!" sobbed seventeen year old Joseph Gross over and over in his cell today. The boy, who accidentally shot and killed his mother in his home at 67 Sarre street, Jamaica, N. Y., is being held for arraignment and, police said, will be charged with homicide.

Police, touched by the boy's plight, offered sympathy but he was unconsolable.

The tragedy occurred last night less than an hour after the youth had returned from Omaha, where he had been on a month's vacation. He was telling the folks all about his trip. He had seen many things, and he even had a gun.

He got it out and displayed it. "It isn't loaded, is it Joe?" his mother asked.

"Oh, no, there's nothing in it," he looked.

There came a flash. The mother, without uttering a word, sank to the floor—a bullet through her heart.

Trial May Leave Bryan Speechless

Tennessee Prosecutor of Monkey Law Case Says He Will Speak Only When State Summons Up—Defense Objections May Bar Him Out.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dayton, Tenn., July 16.—WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, hailed as the "evangelical leader of the prosecution," may be barred from making a new "cross of gold" speech in the Scopes anti-evolution trial, International News Service learned today.

Although he has waited patiently for a week while other orators held the spotlight, Bryan may be counted out in his chair. Under the prosecution's present plans, it was learned, Bryan will not be called upon to speak upon any point of law. If he does speak, it will be on evolution and its relation to the Bible, which the defense has been trying to inject into the trial.

If the defense fails in this effort, as was widely predicted today, the Commoner will be without a subject for the first time in his life. For, if the scientific evidence is forbidden by Judge John T. Ranslow, Bryan will likewise be prohibited from touching upon evolution, from attacking the modernist cause, from defending fundamentalism and even from endorsing the Biblical story of the divine creation of man.

That the Commoner would not speak on law points was revealed by Attorney General A. Thomas Stewart. He said Bryan would speak only when the state summons up and with no subject. It is almost a safe prediction the Commoner won't speak at all.

Defense attorneys plan to shut him out entirely if the scientific evidence is barred.

"We will make Bryan stick to the testimony if he does speak," said Dr. John R. Neal, chief of defense counsel, "and if he attempts to talk upon other subjects, we will object to every sentence at the end of every sentence."

Violated Game Laws, Fined $152

Ferdinando D'Allesandio and Gaetano Calce, Italians from New York, who are boarding in Rifton, were arrested on Wednesday by Inspector Fred DeWitt and S. M. Casella, representatives of the State Conservation Commission, for violation of the game laws. Complaint had been made to the officers who found in their possession Phoebe birds, blue birds, red headed woodpeckers and a thrush. When arrested they were in the act of plucking feathers from some of the birds. The Italians were taken before Justice of the Peace Leon Van Wazer at St. Remy and after a conference a compromise settlement was made by the payment of a fine of $152.50.

Told to Drink at Revolver's Point But They Didn't

Three Kingston Men had Exciting Experience Near Sangerettes During Early Morning Hour When Held up by Man Armed With Revolver.

Party Burger of No. 10 Green street had enough exciting experiences Wednesday night and early this morning to last him over the week and at least. Arrested Wednesday night for parking his car too far away from the curb on North Front street, being paroled to appear in police court this morning, and then driving to Haines Falls and on returning home being held up by two men in a Ford sedan and forced to drink from a bottle under pressure of a revolver pointed at his head—that was the sum and substance of one exciting night for Percy.

Mr. Burger was driving through North Front street on his way down town to pick up Neal Schaffer and Emory Helder of Adams street when he happened to think he needed some amuse from a store and stopped his car with the rear two feet away from the curb while the front of the car was three and a half feet away from the curb while he went in the store. He was placed under arrest by Officer Hase.

Burger explained to Judge Schurlock that he had expected to return immediately to his car but had to wait some time to get wanted on.

After being paroled Burger picked up the other two men and then drove as far as Haines Falls, returning to Kingston by way of Saugerties. While driving through that village a Ford sedan pulled up behind them and called them to halt. Burger stopped his car and the man told him that his rear light was out and asked him if he did not know it was against the law to drive without a tail light. Burger replied he did but had not known it was so.

He was then ordered to follow after the Ford, and thinking the occupants were police officers, he did so. Just outside the village he was ordered to stop again and one of the men jumped out of the Ford and glanced in Burger's car and saw the other two men.

"You seem like good sports," said the hold up man, and pulling a flask from his pocket he ordered them all to take a swig from it. He entered his demand by flourishing a revolver. Burger said he was afraid to tackle the stuff and placed his thumb over the mouth of the bottle and made believe to sip it. The others did the same. In the darkness the hold up man did not notice that they did not drink, and when the flask was returned to him he ordered them to drive on.

They reported the hold up to the police when they reached Kingston and the State Troopers were notified.

Wilhelm Free to Enter Politics

No Restrictions on Former German Crown Prince—American Author Soon to Be His Guest.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, July 16.—Former Crown Prince Wilhelm is free to enter politics, as far as any promise given the Prussian government is concerned. This official statement, overturning a belief that has been generally held, was made today by the Prussian minister of the interior.

Answering the protest of socialists against the appearance of Wilhelm at the agricultural meet at Breslau, where he was given enthusiastic ovations, the minister of the interior declared that Wilhelm prior to his return from exile at Wilhelmsruh, neither gave a special pledge to keep out of politics, nor was asked for any such promise.

Since his return to Germany, the former crown prince has been living on his estate in Upper Silesia, near the Polish border.

James Oliver Curwood, American author, said to hold a high place in the prince's affections. Shortly will be a guest at Wilhelm's home.

1,000 Clambakers To Eat at Once

Big Feast at Forsyth Park on August 3 Will Demonstrate Efficiency of Clinton Avenue Methodist Sunday School.

The Winners Sunday School Class of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church is again planning for a great feast, known as a clambake. The place for this event has shifted from the armory grounds to Forsyth Park. This is a most appropriate place for such an occasion, especially in view of the large pavilion just completed by the board of public works, which would seat four hundred people and shelter them from the rain. A large tent has also been rented which will be erected upon the ground, thus insuring success for the clambake, rain or shine. In case of rain the tables will be placed under the tent and in the pavilion. The committee has decided that they will limit the tickets to one thousand, and when that number of tickets are disposed of, there will be no more available.

One of the remarkable things about this clambake, as planned by the Men's Class, is that it is always served exactly on time, which this year will be 6:50 sharp, and in less than five minutes from that time a thousand people will be partaking of their first course which will consist of Boston Blues. The rapid service is accounted for by the fact that each and every portion is cooked up in a chafecolth napkin before it is put into the pit. It is a most interesting sight to see 1,000 persons seated and eating at the same time. This requires the service of 150 waiters. They have already been secured from the various Sunday School classes of the Clinton Avenue Church. The date for this mammoth event is Wednesday, August 6th.

TOURISTS HAD NARROW ESCAPE WHEN U. & D. TRAIN HIT AUTO.

Lieutenant Henry, Walter Werman and Charles More of Melrose Park, Illinois, had a narrow escape about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening when their automobile was struck by an Ulster & Delaware Railroad train on the Forthall avenue crossing. Fortunately the train and auto were both traveling at a slow speed at the time and the auto was shoved across the road and up on the sidewalk in front of the farmer's shanty.

The auto was not damaged to any extent and was able to proceed under its own power. The three boys were uninjured. They were on a camping tour of the east and carried their camp equipment with them in the touring car. They were evidently unaware of the approaching train, which seemed as usual in passing through the rock cut, but a woman seated the dancer screamed to the boys in the car and the driver swung the steering wheel to the right, turning the car away from the tracks. The locomotive backed into the rear wheel of the auto and started it across the road.

CITIZENS TO COOPERATE IN HOME RULE APPEAL.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., July 16.—Citizens' council of many of state cities, working in cooperation with the Corporation Counsel, James P. Nicholson of New York City, started preparing the home rule appeal which will be argued before the court of appeals on Tuesday, September 1.

The appeal was filed in the department of the state and is a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, asking the court to annul the home rule amendment, which was adopted by the voters in 1915.

Parade Will Precede Ulster County Picnic

Floats Will Float on Friday, August 28. to Forsyth Park, Where Everybody Can Indulge in All Kinds of Sports Except Professional Oratory, Which Will Be Barred—Interesting Program for the Day.

From the midst of uncertainty that still hangs over many of the details of the Ulster County Picnic and Home-Bureau Picnic in Forsyth Park on Friday August 28, on date line and somewhat ray of light now gleams, it having been definitely decided that there will be no time given to orators. No speechmaking is on the program and in this respect the program will be strictly adhered to if the committee has to call on the sheriff, the police, the State Troopers and the local artillery batteries to enforce the mandate. Nothing within human control will be permitted to interrupt where he had completed a term of from one year and six months to three years and six months, for grand larceny, second degree. He will remain in the county jail until fall when he will answer to the charge of jail breaking, an indictment having been found by the grand jury for that offense.

Dunham was first arrested at Niagara Falls where he had gone with an automobile which he took from in front of the dance hall at Stone Ridge. When he attempted to sell it at Niagara Falls, the police there were notified and inquiry was made here as to whether the car was stolen. The result was that Dunham was returned here and charged with grand larceny, first degree. He was allowed to plead guilty to second degree and it was following the imposition of sentence and while he was waiting transfer to Dannemora in 1923 that he broke jail. It is said he donned women's clothes and walked out with some jail visitors.

After his escape he went to Canada but was unable to keep out of trouble. Selecting Kingston, Canada, as the place for a second prison sentence he remained there for some time and when he was discharged he was escorted to the border by Canadian officials and deported as an undesirable. At that time Deputy Sheriff Evory was waiting for him on the United States side and picked him up. Dunham was sent to Dannemora to serve his original sentence on the grand larceny charge. Now that his term has expired he is again returned and will have to answer to the jail breaking charge.

While at Dannemora Dunham has been working as a carpenter and the officials said he was a model prisoner. Dunham was admitted to bail this morning before Judge Fowler. Bail was fixed at $1,000. Frank W. Brooks appeared for him.

Arrest Dunham Following Term

Harvey Dunham Is Brought Back To County Jail After Serving Term at Dannemora—Indicted Here For Jail Breaking.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Evory returned Wednesday evening from the Clinton State Prison at Dannemora where he had gone with a warrant for the arrest of Harvey Dunham, wanted here for jail breaking. Dunham was discharged from that institution where he had completed a term of from one year and six months to three years and six months, for grand larceny, second degree. He will remain in the county jail until fall when he will answer to the charge of jail breaking, an indictment having been found by the grand jury for that offense.

Choose Colors to Suit Complexion

Milady Should Know Limitations, Prominent Art Instructor Says.

The woman who studies her color limitations has taken the first step toward being well dressed. She knows what colors to look for when she goes to the shop and thus uses her own time and that of the clerk to the best advantage. According to Miss Hazel Hartman, art instructor in the University of Wisconsin, certain colors are especially adapted to various types of individuals.

The blond with fair skin and blue eyes appears best in the "cooler colors" such as green, blue and lavender. Greens bring out the golden tint in her hair and the pink in her cheeks. She appears "most like a blond" in blue, although she may wear white, pink and golden brown successfully. If her hair is slightly dark she may wear the shade of middle blue more becomingly than powder blue. If the skin is not too pale, black is considered an ideal color for this type.

The blond with medium-brown hair, imperfect skin and blue or brown eyes, may wear the medium shades of blue, green and red, dark brown and cream white.

Brunettes with fair skin may wear almost any color. The brighter shades, such as yellow, red and henna are usually most becoming. If the hair is dark brown instead of black, shades of orange may be worn. There is no reason why a brunette with fair skin and blue eyes cannot wear shades of blue. Such shades may bring out the pink of the cheeks.

Brunettes with dark hair and eyes, but imperfect or florid skin, may wear tans and browns, as well as blue-greens and cream or ivory whites. Such a type needs to avoid such colors as yellow, black and the pastel shades. If the skin is the least bit sallow, it is necessary to avoid the cooler shades, such as blue and green.

Gray-haired types appear best in grays which are slightly darker than the hair. Other becoming colors are lavender, burnt orange and dark blue or black. Pink is not a good color for an older woman.

The new shades of green are particularly becoming to the autumn-haired type, as they emphasize the beauty of the hair and the clearness of the complexion. If the skin is pale and the eyes are blue, this type may wear various shades of blue, tan and brown, as well as black or white. The type with a freckled but rather pale face may wear such colors as black, dull blue, purple, white, henna and other shades of tan and brown.

Like Matching Sets With Sports Suits

In a summer when white is more conspicuous than ever in smart sports clothes, hat and scarf sets are expanded on to introduce a color note in the costume or hat, blouse and scarf made to match. In this case the color of the blouse is repeated in the border of the scarf and in the hat drapery.

Simple Ways to Remove Stains From Fabrics

Blood stains may be removed from fabric by soaking first in cold water and salt, then washing in tepid water with soap, or in case of bad stains by an application of peroxide of hydrogen.

Iodine stains may be soaked in a weak solution of carbolic acid and water or in diluted ammonia water, and afterward washed out with tepid water and soap.

Tea, coffee and fruit stains on linen are usually removed by pouring boiling water over the stains. If this fails, spread the spot over a bowl full of steaming hot water and rub it with solution of oxalic acid. Then rinse in diluted ammonia water and finally clear warm water.

Give stains may be removed with lemon juice and salt. Dampen the stain with hot water, apply a coating of salt and wet it with lemon juice. Rub in the sun. Repeat the process until the stain starts to fade, then rinse in diluted ammonia solution, then in clear water.

One Kind Word

At least there is this much to say for the fat men. The women folks can't have to run around and hunt up a quinine and red flannel band and keep it around their necks every time a thermometer happens to register a degree or two colder.

Dogs Not a Commodity

"Rusticus," author of "Bucolic Beatitudes," has only contempt for those who buy and sell dogs. "A dog," he says, "should never be purchased, should never be made the subject of barter and dickerings. A dog may be rescued from abuse, he may be found and kept, and, in cases of real necessity, he may be stolen in a dignified manner; but he should never be bought. I have heard of men that make a livelihood from the purchase and sale of dogs. I cannot conceive of them as good husbands and kind fathers, but they seem to me to be human monsters engaged in a sinister traffic."

Tiger Talk, Etc.

The mating call of a tiger, the mournful, wailing "ah-wough," repeated five or six times in succession of intervals is really a very loud "mew," and when making tiger, or tigers, will roam the jungles for miles, mewing all through the night, and sometimes till as late as noonday. But when a tiger is angry at being disturbed, especially a tigress with cubs, it gives a low, humming, murmuring growl, very cat-like, and followed by a long-drawn "hwa-eeh." A tiger will often give his "ah-wough" and a leopard his scolding roar, when on their way to their kills.

Two Poultry Judging Schools

committees have completed arrangements to hold two poultry judging schools, the first at the farm of Raymond DuBois at Forest Glen on Tuesday, July 21, at 10:00 a. m., the second at the Stone Ridge Grange Hall at Stone Ridge on Wednesday, July 22, at 10:00 a. m., standard time.

Each school will be in charge of Professor L. M. Hurd of the Cornell Poultry Department. Poultrymen who have become acquainted with Professor Hurd are unanimous in their opinion that he is a leader. The Watkins and Roundout Valley Poultry Clubs and the Farm Bureau in his line.

All club members, Farm and Home Bureau members and friends are invited to attend the school and also to take part in the judging contest.

The Wedding Ring

How long a ring has been considered a necessity for weddings cannot be told. Tradition says that the first ring was made of iron and obtained by Tubal Cain for a man named Prometheus; the two thought Cain signified intelligence and the adamant perfect armor. The early Romans commonly used a plain iron ring, while the poorer English, even in the nineteenth century, used the ring for the church keys.

Grow Your Own Lilies

If people only realized how easily water lilies can be grown in the garden, the flowers would be as familiar as asters or water lilies. Says Nature Magazine, "Even the thickest garden has all the requisites, and lilies have been grown successfully on the roofs of city skyscrapers. A tub or tight half barrel of water, a little good soil and sunshine are all that the gardener needs for a modest attempt."

Judgment of Women

I have been misled by the four women whose love was of the most comfort to me: My mother, my sister, my wife and my daughter. I have had the better part and it will not be taken from me for I often fancy that the judgments which will be passed upon us in the valley of Jehoshaphat will be neither more nor less than those of women, constituted by the Almighty.—Ernest Renan.

Eradicate the Elm Beetle

Spraying With a Contact Poison Will Kill Large Numbers of the Insects at This Time Which Threaten to Destroy Shade Trees Here.

July 15, 1925.
To the Editor of The Freeman.

The elm beetle a serious matter. The writer has been called to Kingston very recently by property owners to inspect and advise in reference to this insect upon their elm trees. While much has been said and done (and perhaps wisely so) as to the eradication of the undesirable North Carolina poplar, much thought and energy should also have been given as to the preservation of Kingston's valuable and most desirable shade trees.

While this beetle is common over a large part of Europe, it also came over in the Hudson valley many years ago and many a town has had a battle royal with it from time to time. The pest was abundant and destructive at Newburgh in 1879, two years later in Poughkeepsie, in 1880 at Hudson, in 1891 at New Baltimore. In 1892 it was known in Albany and Troy and later in many more places too numerous to mention, sufficient to know that it is in Kingston at this time in its most destructive form.

The defoliation of a tree in mid-summer is a serious injury since the leaves are breathing organs, and if this occurs for successive years, even once a season, the early death of the elm may be expected, and when it occurs two or even three times in a summer it is very easy to see that the danger to the tree is increased manifold.

The skeletonized brown appearance of the foliage of an infested tree in midsummer is very striking. The parent beetle may be recognized by its reddish yellow color of its thorax and wing margins and also its head; it is about 3/4 inch long. The orange yellow eggs are usually deposited in irregular rows side by side, forming clusters of from three to twenty-six or more on the under side of the leaf. The newly hatched grub is about 1-20 of an inch long; in this stage its appearance is quite black. As it becomes full grown it is about 3/4 inch long and has a yellowish appearance.

The transformation of this insect is so rapid that one must know what to expect or in fighting the pest one will accomplish practically nothing, because a substance effective against the beetle or grubs may not kill the pupae, and after the larvae have begun to descend the trees, may be of no value and that is the stage of the insect in Kingston at this time.

The secret of controlling an insect frequently lies in a knowledge of some vulnerable place in its life history. It is practically impossible to get at the insect while it is hibernating but, if the leaves are thoroughly sprayed with an arsenical poison early in the spring when the beetles begin to feed, many of them will be poisoned, thus reducing many grubs that would hatch out later from the eggs that these beetles will lay. As this pest does not fly a great distance, it reduces the liability of their flying from neglected trees near at hand, the local spread is therefore slow and the most should be made of it by keeping the pest in check wherever it occurs. It is a mistake to wait until the creature becomes destructive. It should be fought at the very beginning, even before it has secured a fair foothold in a locality.

The grubs feed almost exclusively on the under surface of the leaf, rarely occurring on its upper side. The attacks usually begin on the higher, more tender leaves, hence the tops of the trees need spraying most, and in order to kill the grubs the poisons must be thrown on the underside of the leaves, and as a rule this treatment will be found most satisfactory. At this writing large numbers of the full grown larvae may be seen crawling down the trunks in great numbers, they may be seen both on the bark and on the ground about the trees. Large numbers of these insects can be killed at this time by spraying with a contact poison, the best of which forty per cent nicotine. While oil soap or kerosene emulsion is also used for this purpose.

These measures are advisable only when others can not be carried out, and in order to secure the best result the grubs should be destroyed every five days so long as the pests are seen in number. Bands of tar, sticky fly-paper, cotton baiting, etc., while they do no harm, can not be considered as of much value in keeping the elm leaf beetle under control. The relatively few worms caught on a sticky band are but a drop in the bucket as compared with the mass that complete their transformations.

Respectfully submitted,

Now-a One-Profit Car in the Quality Field

STUDEBAKER has achieved one-profit manufacture in the quality field. This marks a new era in the automobile industry. Studebaker's achievement eliminates unnecessary profits running up to $500 on a single car. It banishes double overhead. It results in quantity production of quality cars. It vitally affects pricing by establishing a new criterion of value in the fine car field.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago practically all "manufacturers" of automobiles were nothing more than assemblers. They purchased motors, bodies, tops, axles, etc., from parts makers who were the manufacturers in reality.

On this basis it was easy to become an automobile "manufacturer," and more than five hundred makes of automobiles have had their day in the American market and disappeared. They are represented only by "orphan cars" with practically no resale value.

Notwithstanding this writing on the wall many manufacturers still assemble their product, piling profit upon profit for the ultimate purchaser to pay. Each profit which a maker pays to a body builder or parts supplier enters into his costs just as though he had spent the money for steel or plate glass or upholstery. Although it represents no value he not only passes it on to the purchaser but figures his own profit on top of it.

The Ford is a one-profit car and reigns supreme in its field.

In the fine car field Studebaker—and Studebaker alone—now offers the American public one-profit values.

During the past seven years, when demand exceeded supply, Studebaker has been plowing earnings back into plants and machinery until we are now able to make this announcement.

Foundries, stamping mills, machine shops, are now complete. As final links in the chain of one-profit production, the enormous Studebaker body plants have been operating for months at peak capacity. Resources totaling one hundred million dollars are concentrated on the production of this one-profit car.

No other individual manufacturer in the world (except Ford) possesses such facilities for the complete manufacture of automobiles.

That is why Studebaker is able to put finer steel, finer wood, finer upholstery, better workmanship, hundreds of thousands of miles of reserve transportation, into every car—yet keep down the price to you.

This sound manufacturing principle not only holds down price, but it insures a better car regardless of price. The car is not a patchwork, but a unit.

Last year at the New York and Chicago automobile shows four well-known automobile manufacturers exhibited coaches mounted with the same body—a body made from the identical dies, jigs and fixtures. Certainly these manufacturers must have sacrificed engineering advantages in chassis construction to accommodate this "standardized" coach body built by an outside supplier.

Contrast this with Studebaker, where the entire car is designed and built as a unit—and engineered complete. This construction means (1) longer life (2) greater comfort in riding—(3) greater freedom from repair expense—(4) greater resale value.

With the advent of this one-profit one-overhead plan of motor car manufacture, it is folly today to buy a car by the same comparisons you used yesterday. Today you must measure all cars with this "one-profit" Studebaker.

One-fourth of all the American passenger cars built today belong in the fine car field—a total of 57 different makes selling above one thousand dollars.

There are 21 Studebaker body styles available on three different chassis. The Standard Six Models, 113-inch wheelbase, 50 h.p. engine, $1225 to $1600 f.o.b. factory. The Special Six Models, 120-inch wheelbase, 65 h.p. engine, $1450 to $2120 f.o.b. factory. And the Big Six Models, 127-inch wheelbase, 75 h.p. engine, $1875 to $2650 f.o.b. factory.

And you may buy your Studebaker today with the assurance that it will not be arbitrarily stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model."

Instead of spectacular annual announcements of "new yearly models," Studebaker has adopted the policy of keeping its cars up-to-date in body styles and chassis design every day in the year. Therefore, buy your Studebaker now!

Why Studebaker is the one-profit car
There are more than 60 make of passenger cars built in the United States, but very few are manufactured complete in the plants of the producers who sell them.

Only 42 build all their own motors and one of the 42 is Studebaker.

Of the 42 which claim to make their own motors only 14 make the iron castings, stampings and forgings which go into their motors—and one of the 14 is Studebaker.

Only 5 make all their own bodies and one of the 5 is Studebaker.

Only 2 make all their own motors, bodies, castings, springs, axles, gear sets, differentials and steering gear. One of these 2 is Studebaker and the other is Ford.

Dr. O'Meara's European Trip

Dr. O'Meara, recently returned from a trip to Europe, was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club on Wednesday, and in a brief informal talk described many interesting experiences.

Dr. O'Meara, recently returned from a trip to Europe, was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club on Wednesday, and in a brief informal talk described many interesting experiences.

Dr. O'Meara, recently returned from a trip to Europe, was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club on Wednesday, and in a brief informal talk described many interesting experiences.

In Manchester, the great industrial city, the absence of tenements and the multitude of one and two family houses occupied by the working people impressed the visitors.

In Dublin there was great interest in visiting the Rotunda Hospital, famous for holding the world's record for lowest mortality rate in maternity cases, where doctors come from all over the world for post graduate work.

In Dublin the hospitals were fine but many buildings are still in partial ruins as a result of the Civil War.

After seeing the historic relics in London and Dublin a visit to Belfast was a pleasant exchange, for while Belfast has its historic buildings it is on the whole a modern city, reminding one of an American city, Cleveland, for instance.

In Edinburgh the doctor met a friend of Dr. Cranston of this city. In Glasgow, where he attended a meeting of the Rotary Club, he found that the club banner had been presented by the Poughkeepsie Rotary Club, which made the meeting seem even more homelike than the usual Rotary meeting is to a visitor.

The Glasgow club honored the American visitors by singing songs and toasting the president and the king.

In Paris the party visited the Radio Institute presided over by Madame Curie and attended a lecture by that lady.

As to how the surgeons and physicians abroad compare with our own, Dr. O'Meara says that among civilized and progressive people science is international and whatever is discovered in one country is passed on to the others, so that they are about the same.

A physician to the king, who was a mighty good doctor just the same, in an address to the party urged that the great thing for men in middle life was to stop worrying and trying to look after details in their work, take more rest and recreation and live longer, advice that Dr. O'Meara endorses and promises to practice himself in future.

The doctor's appearance and manner would seem to indicate that he has already begun the practice with beneficial results, as for the first in more than a year he seems to have recovered his normal health and cheerfulness.

SHANDAKEN.

Shandaken, July 16.—Miss Ethel Peck, who recently took a motor trip to visit friends in Rutland, Vt., has returned home.

Harry E. Thompson of Rutland, Vt., is visiting his old home and friends in this place.

Mrs. Ward Hommel and children visited Mrs. Hommel's parents at Fleischmanns over the week end.

The plays given by Miss Anna B. Riseley and her Sunday school class on Tuesday evening in the church hall, were a decided success. Proceeds, $25 and the Christian Endeavor Society realized about $12 from the sale of ice cream and cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Whitney of Kingston were guests of H. F. Whitney on Sunday.

Mrs. Mary L. Rachow of Detroit, Mich., is a guest of the Mountain Lodge Inn. Mrs. Rachow sang very pleasingly in connection with the services in the M. E. Church on Sunday.

Harry E. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peck and daughter, Ethel, and Hartman Dutcher motored to Downsview on Sunday and spent the day with Mrs. Peck's sister.

NEW PALTZ.

New Paltz, July 16.—Two concerts in the Normal auditorium are announced for July and August. On July 30, there will be a concert by Richard de Sylva, tenor, assisted by Arthur Hadley, violinist. Mr. Hadley will be accompanied by his sister, Miss Helen Hadley. Mr. de Sylva's accompanist will be Harry Watts, of the Eastern School of Music. Mr. Hadley received an ovation when he sang at the Normal School here a few weeks ago. On August 11, there will be a joint concert by Adelaide De Luca, contralto, of New York city, and Andrew Baird, concert pianist.

Saturday night, July 11, was celebrated as Patriotic Night by the Huguenot Grange. There were patriotic addresses and music. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Schoonmaker were the host and hostess.

Many people have been taking advantage during the hot weather of the bath houses along the Walkkill. On the Fourth of July the occupants of twenty cars enjoyed a cold plunge.

Orchard Terrace Inn had a full house over the week end.

Lewis Woolsey, who finished his summer course in surveying at Yale last week, started Monday to begin work with the United States Topographical Survey, which is now revising the topographical map of the Albany Quadrangle.

Machinery is on the ground for beginning work on Road 18, leading from the Arbuckle farm house toward the county farm.

Bruce Bennett and Arthur Hadley were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Smiley at Lake Minnewaska on Thursday night.

Mrs. Fred Thorne and daughter, Margaret, of Flushing, L. I., and Miss Selby of Staten Island have been guests of Mrs. George Dovey this week.

Iver Miller and family and Neils P. Lundrup visited New York on Sunday, motoring to Newburgh and making the rest of the trip by boat.

Mrs. Luther Hasbrouck, who has sold her residence on upper Main street, expects to hold an auction of her household furniture the latter part of this month.

The sudden cessation of the New Paltz, Highland and Poughkeepsie Traction Company will in no way interrupt the through freight service to and from New Paltz. Freight will now be handled by the Farmers' Trucking Company, of which Irving Harcourt is president in connection with the Central-Hudson Steamboat Company. The service will be daily to and from New York and other Hudson river landings. The truck will leave Highland for New Paltz every morning at 8 o'clock.

The town of New Paltz this year receives $1,062 as its share of the state income tax. Last year it received only $476.

Booth Tarkington's, "The Trysting Place," at Cabaret July 16. Cast, in order of their appearance: Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Louis D. LeFevre; Lancelot Briggs, James Kenney; Mrs. Briggs, Mrs. DeWitt C. Seward, Jessie Briggs, Dora Van den Berg; Rupert Smith, Gordon Pine; Mr. Ingolsby, Van Bogert; Mysterious Voice, Benjamin Matteson. The scene is laid in a secluded corridor of a summer hotel. The entertainment is snappy and there will be dancing until 1 a. m. The play will be given at the Opera House for the benefit of the Free Library.

Mrs. Fred Coddington and daughter, Lucile, spent the week with relatives in Tonkers.

Martha and Florence Neppul of Stormville are attending summer school at the Normal.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Ryerson of Hagerstown, Maryland, have been visiting Mrs. Ryerson's sister, Miss Maude Cole.

Carl Betz and family are spending some time with his mother.

George Grimm and family are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amon Roosa on North Chestnut street.

Mrs. Frank Allen, who has been spending the month of June in Flushing, Long Island, and Woodburn, Mass., has returned to her home on Wurts avenue.

Mrs. Bert Malcolm spent Monday and Tuesday with her father, John McCord, who is ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Guinac, on Mohonk avenue.

The Rev. J. Robert Halmshaw returned home on Saturday after spending a short vacation at South Bristol, Maine. Mrs. Halmshaw expects to remain for the summer.

The meeting of the Sullivan Shaffer Post was held in the American Legion rooms on Monday evening.

Mrs. W. Macaulay called on friends in town on Monday.

The dates selected for the carnival this year are Thursday, July 23, Thursday, August 13, and Friday, August 28. The date of either August 13 or 28 will find the New Paltz Armen in charge, with the proceeds going directly to that cause. Harry Huling, the new chairman, has appointed the committees to have charge of the first carnival. One of the best full sized orchestras in eastern New York has been engaged to furnish music for dancing.

On April 29, 1901, Daniel Rose, who is well remembered by the older people, deposited one hundred dollars to the credit of the Huguenot Memorial Society in the New Paltz Savings Bank as an endowment fund for the perpetual care of the Post Corner Burying Ground. Despite the fact that four dollars have been withdrawn and only two dollars and fifty cents deposited during that time, and that up to July 1, 1907, the bank paid only 3 1/2 per cent interest, yet the original sum, plus interest, compounded twice a year, on July 1, 1925, amounted to $249.92.

There are 232 now on roll at the summer school.

The reservoirs on the mountains from which our village gets its water supply have been thoroughly cleaned and the brush cleared away.

Electric Power a Factor in Civilization

IN LANDS where men are paid but a few cents a day for their labor, human power is largely employed in industry and transportation. There is little incentive to conserve human energy, it is so cheap.

In our own country, where living standards are high, where each individual requires so much to satisfy his wants, men must produce infinitely more and better things. The plentiful application of mechanical power makes it possible to supply the demand and still leave a margin of time in which to enjoy the fruits of effort.

The greatest single force in this age of vast production is electricity.

This great source of power and energy will continue to increase in usefulness. No task is too heavy for electric power—no task too delicate or exacting. Each day finds new uses for this wonderful energy.

Instead of a luxury, electricity has become a prime necessity. The thousands of investors in securities of the Central Hudson System are participating in an enterprise which is providing this necessity in a region where stability is an outstanding characteristic.

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Co. is offering a new issue of 6 per cent Ten Year Gold Debenture Bonds to its customers. The proceeds are to be used to purchase additional utility properties and to extend its equipment and facilities for giving service. Information may be obtained at any office of the company or of its affiliated companies in the Central Hudson system.

Prestige &amp; Profit

Goods advertised in newspapers are superior to non-advertised goods!

This is the conclusion of a Better Business Bureau that has been checking up newspaper advertising in an Eastern city.

Careful comparisons were made of advertised goods and similar lines that were not advertised.

In 95% of the cases, the Better Business Bureau reports, the advertised articles were superior in quality to the non-advertised articles.

Good news for newspaper readers—of course, but most of them know it by experience.

How about the national advertiser who is seeking that elusive thing called "prestige"?

A manufacturer's brands are in the best company when they are in the advertising columns of the daily newspaper. And since newspaper advertising sells goods, newspaper advertisers combine prestige with profit.

Kasha Cloth, Belt of Tan Kid, Bone Buttons

Hemlines may flare and jabots may flutter in the breeze of fashion, but the popularity of the strictly tailored suit shows no signs of waning. This charming sample is modeled from kasha cloth in natural color, with belt of tan kid, and bone buttons. The boyish shirt and bow tie complete the tailored ensemble.

Color Characteristics

Should Be Considered

Did you ever stop to think when you bought a hat or dress of striking shade that colors have characters, just as truly as people have?

Although colors do seem to vary, according to their background, their suitability and their becomingness to the person who wears them, yet every color has its own special and unchangeable individuality.

Red, for instance, is the stimulant of the color world. It enlivens its surroundings, attracts attention, is cheerful and agreeable.

Orange is the frivolous color, warm and bright and gay. It must be used sparingly because it is so intense and it gives the skin a bluish tinge. Dark orange and gold are more subdued and less frivolous.

Yellow, the sun color, brightens, like the sun, everything it touches. Green is cool, refreshing and brilliant. Shades of bluish-green are said to be the most flattering of all colors.

Blue, the color of the distant hills, the lakes, the sky, the ocean, is also a "standard" color for women's dress. Its characteristics are restfulness, coolness, unobtrusiveness. It has, too, the desirable quality of making white seem purer, and black blacker. It is always fashionable, always desirable. It doesn't destroy the shape of either face or figure, or accentuate any displeasing features.

Violet, the color of royalty, is dignified, cool, summery. It is a pliable color, and combines well with many others. It is no longer the "old ladies' color," but is worn by everyone to whom it is becoming.

White, the "color that isn't a color," is almost as "standard" as blue, since it is always becoming, to the face if not to the form. This cannot be said of black, the depressing color, which adds age to the face as truly as white subtracts it.

The neutral colors like gray and taupe are the soft shades which nature (and the skillful dressmaker) use to blend together the harsher, brighter tones.

So, whether it's furnishing a room or replenishing a wardrobe, if you would have your background express what you want to say, you must consider color characteristics.

Georgette in Tailored Mode for Summer Wear

An outstanding phase of the fashions of the season is the use of sheer fabrics for models that in line and detail are reproductions of the tailored dresses of wool.

One of the first models of this type to be shown was a little two-piece jumper dress of georgette in both dark and pastel shades. The turn-back collar, the long sleeves gathered into a tight wristband, and the skirt with an inverted plait in front or one at each side were copied from the hairbrag model which has been such a success and which from every indication will be worn all during the summer.

Developed in georgette, these new frocks possess an individuality that is achieved as much by their use of a different material as by their delicate simplicity of line.

Important Accessory

There is scarcely a more important dress accessory than gloves and popularity of most hand coverings is governed largely by their washability. The washable suede is widely worn, since it can be economically and readily cleaned without putting the glove out of shape.

Mermals Are Modernistic in Their Ideas of Dress and Prone to Sun Baths.

Cretonne departments are doing a land-office business in material for bathing suits and beach wraps. At one time one ventured into the upholstery realm apologetically, when in search of a gay print for a beach dress. Now, the salesman has at his fingertips such patterns as are appropriate and wanted for bathing suits—usually allover designs which, while large, are relatively small from the upholstery viewpoint.

A Modern Mermald Wears Modernistic Cretonne.

Gay printed silks and crepes of all kinds are also being ordered, but cretonne is the smartest fabric of the season from the reviewing stand of the sands. There are printed linens, too, which may be put in the same category. The main thing, of course, is to be sure that the color will stand a salt dip, for, humorists to the contrary, smartly-costumed women do sometimes go into the water!

Straight, sometimes belted, tunics, very short, but otherwise discreetly cut, are the choice of women who do not elect to wear mannish knitted suits.

A coat to harmonize—if not actually match—and, of course, a parasol, are part of any girl's beach regalia this season. Cretonne coats are by no means restricted to beach wear, while, of course, rubberized silk ones bring to mind that no longer will our rainy days be dark and dreary, but with not only colorful umbrellas, but gay rubber coats to protect and cheer.

Tall Girl Appears Shorter

With Proper Use of Color

A tall girl who wishes to make herself look shorter should wear a dark suit and hat with light shoes and hose and a light trimming, such as an up-standing quill, on the hat. The eye jumps from light to light. The effect is ruined, however, if she stops the passage of the eye by wearing light gloves or carrying a light purse.

IS MIXING BUT NOT MELTING POT

Shanghai, China, Is Most Cosmopolitan City in the World.

Washington.—"Activities of Chinese agitators in Shanghai, which is, with the possible exception of Cairo, the most cosmopolitan city in the world, direct attention to the picturesque setting of this exotic hybrid of East and West," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Approaching the city from Wusung, its port on the Yangtze river, the villages, graveyards and anchored ships of all kinds become more numerous as one nears the wharves. The hum and roar of factories and cotton mills belie the real atmosphere of this metropolis of central China. It is not until the heavy, half-sickening smell of bean-oil, incense, opium smoke and of human beings penetrates the nostrils that the true Asiatic flavor of the city is revealed.

"Although the quaint Kiangsu junks are rapidly disappearing, the cargo junks, sampans, and speedy slipper boats still vie with the motor launches of huge steel and wooden vessels from every port on the globe.

"Shanghai, like Venice, is a city built largely upon piles sunk far into the soft black sand and saturated clay upon which the city rests along the banks of the Hwang-pu river. Huge reinforced concrete rafts are buried in this clay, and the foundations of the buildings are laid on them.

"The foreign settlements are delightfully modern, with plenty of space, light and air, and are as clean and orderly as occidental cities. The French maintain their own concession under a government separate from that of the other 20 powers, with their own language and the 'rue,' 'quais' and other signs typical of the homeland.

The Old and New Shanghai.

"In striking contrast is the old Shanghai, where most of the Chinese live. Going through the gates of the native city one passes into another century. Old temples, cramped courtyards, where flowering peonies and chrysanthemums can be glimpsed in passing, and an endless succession of narrow streets, hung with rocco banners of Chinese characters, and filthy and reeking with a thousand odors, differentiate it at once from its smaller modern cousins but a short distance away.

"A tea-house set in the middle of a stagnant pond is one of the treasured places of the old city, where sellers of jade and cheap jewelry, letter writers, fortune tellers, cobblers, mendicants, peddlers, jugglers and others of Shanghai's polyglot population gather over teacups or chatter endlessly in high pitched voices. The Chinese theater is another native oddity. The want of scenery, the din of the orchestra and the piercing intonations and gaudy costumes of the actors furnish a spectacle, which, while not always pleasing to Western tastes, is always colorful and unusual.

"Shanghai's sobriquet, 'The Paris of the East,' refers more to the gaiety of its social life than to any external resemblance to the French capital. It is not nearly so picturesque as Hongkong, or that queen of Oriental beauty, Foochow. Shanghai cannot set out a thousand lanterns on a dozen hills 1,900 feet up into the night, as Hongkong can, but her more intimate house and garden decorations are famous. There are lanterns everywhere, certain types are used as shop signs, and with their non-sputtering cold tallow candles they shed a perfect light.

"Bubbling Well road is the Riverside drive, the Champs Elysees, or the Ringstrasse, of the foreign settlements. Along this winding modern thoroughfare a panorama of the city's life passes in review. Once the resort of closed broughams and fine cars of foreign dignitaries, it now rattles with anything that can go on wheels, and the rickshaws and wheelbarrows of the natives, dashing in and out among the carriages, taxis and limousines, furnish a gay and motley spectacle all day long.

Foreign Quarters Attract Chinese.
"Although the 'settlements' were first laid out for foreigners alone, the Chinese have come over to them in great numbers to enjoy the protection and advantages of foreign rule. Rich Chinese often retire to the new sections to enjoy their wealth in safety, or to spend it in reckless dissipation. In the foreign settlements are white man's sports of all kinds, racing, golf, tennis, shooting, horse racing, swimming, etc. Good libraries, magnificent clubs, theaters, hotels of all nations, and a spirit of co-operation between the foreign nations represented have made Shanghai one of the pleasantest places to live in the Orient.

"Many of the railroads leading into the central part of the country have their terminals here. Shanghai is the Chicago of China in this respect. The first railroad in China was a 12-mile stretch connecting the city with its port, Wusung. Although the tracks were torn up by revolutionaries soon after they were laid, the seed was well planted, as the many lines of steel throughout the country today bear witness.

"Shanghai is not only a great commercial metropolis, handling nearly half the foreign trade of China, but it has also become a great port.

one of the greatest Chinese industrial centers, with a large laboring population. Cotton and silk cocoon winding mills employ thousands of workers. In addition there are a large number of smaller factories, manufacturing matches, paper, cigarettes, fireworks, wood carvings, jewelry, etc.

"Much of the occidentalization that has come to China in the past half century has filtered through Shanghai, especially through the great printing establishment there which has turned out excellent translations, into Chinese of the literature and ideas of the West. Shanghai also possesses several daily newspapers, printed in both foreign and native languages."

Wanderlust Dies With
Omaha Gypsies' Queen
Omaha, Neb.—The fierce wanderlust which flamed in the breasts of the older generations of the Romany gypsies of Omaha died with their queen. Matilda Wells, queen of the American Romany gypsies, ruled with her husband, Frederick, the wandering band of this continent for fifty years. She and her husband led a small band of countrymen to America in 1898. The trails ever beckoned their covered wagons. They lived and roamed, moved only by the urge to view the far side of each horizon.

This year the annual trip has been abandoned. King Wells and local members of the tribe can find no solace on the road. They will make their last camp near the resting place of their queen, and Omaha will be the future burial ground for members of the tribe. They wait the day they may lie at the feet of their queen in Forest Lawn cemetery.

British Boat 124 Years Old Still in Service

Southampton, England.—The little ketch Bee built 124 years ago and still in service between Southampton and Newport, on the Isle of Wight, completed its thirty eighth thousandth crossing of the Solent channel.

The Bee began its sea duty in 1801 and is one of the very few ships remaining from whose decks men witnessed a British naval victory at sea with Nelson on board. During one period of its career it was commanded for 45 years by the same captain. The Bee has been on the Isle of Wight for nearly all of its existence up to the present time and, according to members of its loyal crew, it is good for many years yet to come. The little craft has carried more than 500,000 tons of cargo between the mainland and the Isle of Wight, covering something like 500,000 miles, although the distance between Newport and Southampton is only 15 miles.

Three younger sister ships of the Bee have been plying the same route for approximately 70 years.

Night Air Beneficial

Night air is especially beneficial. In spite of the theories of our grandparents it is just as beautiful as day air. It is even more purifying, for it is less laden with dust and humidity. Cold air, moreover, according to recent experiments, has been found to be even more health-giving than warm air.

Colonials Play At Middletown

For the fourth game of the series, the Colonials and the Middletown Grays will meet tonight at Middletown. Brown Hunter's outfit has been beaten out in the three previous matches and tonight's contest will give the Grays an opportunity to redeem themselves. If the locals win this contest it will make their eighth straight victory and they don't want to be sidetracked by a team that they have already trimmed three times.

Clyde Russell will be the probable twirler drawn for this fourth match with the Grays. Clyde has not as yet met the Grays in a pitching battle and will likely do the job up right. Smith, the ex-Poughkeepsie twirler will be on hand for Sunday's game with the Franklin Squares and will probably be given a chance to show his stuff as a Colonial pitcher.

ALL STARS PLAY AT POUGHKEEPSIE SUNDAY

Sunday at Poughkeepsie the local All Stars will be the attraction at Red Sox Park. The Red Sox club has been shaken up and has almost a new lineup to face the All Stars. They have Suhre, Coutant and Wickert twirling, with Soloway and Loease catching. They have five of the same players who played here at the Fair Grounds. The rest are the best semi-pros that Gus Joy can get. The local club will line up with their regular tribe with either Dewey, Van Buren, or Hank Cragan taking care of the pitching burden. Hank Smedes doing the receiving. The All Star club has made it three straight wins recently. McCordie and his gang will be sure to fight their hardest. It is hoped that a large number of followers of the local club will accompany them.

Mrs. Rosser overwhelmed Mrs. Pritchard, allowing her only two games.

HARVARD WILL MISS HAMMOND, NINE-LETTER MAN.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Cambridge, Mass., July 16.—When the class of 1925 was graduated from Harvard the Crimson lost one of the greatest and most natural athletes in its history. Jack Hammond, captain of the 1925 varsity baseball team and nine times winner of the Crimson "H," ended his college career. Hammond was the only Harvard athlete, with the exception of the great George Owen, who ever won that number of letters. He won three in football, three in baseball and the same number in hockey.

Old Diamond Rivals as Coaches

Left to right, Chief Bender, one of Connie Mack's stars in the days when he was winning pennants and world series, and Hans Lobert, of New York Giants fame, who opposed each other once more when their teams met on the baseball field. Bender is coaching the Annapolis baseball team, and Lobert is coaching the West Point team.

One Play on Field Nets Frank Chance $140,000

Frank Chance, the "Peerless Leader," who died in Los Angeles, Cal., gained part ownership of the team he so frequently led to victory through a single play, he once related. The one play netted him $140,000, since his stock in the club soared to that value. It was in 1906, as Chance told it, and the Chicago Nationals were in second place fighting for the pennant and with only a few more games to play. In a hot game at Cincinnati Chance hit safely and stole second with one out. Joe Tinker, shortstop and then a heavy hitter, was at bat. Everyone expected Tinker to swing heavily. But Chance signaled for a bunt. Tinker laid down a perfect bunt and Chance streaked for third. The "Peerless Leader" did not stop, but headed for home, sliding in safely.

Next day Charles P. Taft, the new owner of the Cubs, sent for his manager. Chance quoted him as having said, "That was the greatest play I ever saw or ever expect to see. I am going to show you that I appreciate your work and efforts. I am going to let you buy a tenth interest in the club for $100,000."

Chance sold out for $140,000 after he left the club in 1912.

Billiard Cue Caddies a New Wrinkle in London

New wrinkles appear continually in sport. The latest is the use of a cue-caddy. The thing started in London, and has now been brought to New York, and it is thought will likely be popular amongst the more opulent players.

When a certain noted amateur appeared in one of the noted billiard academies of London, with a boy carrying a bag containing several cues from which he made a selection for different shots as the occasion arose, he created considerable of a furore in even such a blasé sporting atmosphere.

The thing however has created a great deal of discussion pro and con. Tom Newman, the professional champion is deadly opposed to it in championship play. He thinks it might be all right for amateurs to give them a chance to develop different shots in practice, but he maintains that it would not only be against the spirit of the game, but would cause delay and confusion. Since the professional looks upon his cue almost as part of himself, and has it so evenly balanced, and so sensitively aimed, that to change cue during an important match, would throw him entirely off his game.

Four Errors in Game Gives Record to Ross

Chester Ross, pitcher for the Boston Red Sox, is reported to have set a new error record for modern-day pitchers when he turned in four miscues in a game against the Browns recently.

According to the books, the old mark was three, jointly held by several hurlers in the American league, the last one being Bob Shawkey, who chalked up a trio of errors June 25, 1921.

Ross committed his quartet over an eight-inning stretch, making two in one inning.

Picks Team of All-Time Big League Ball Stars

Since picking all-American football teams is all the rage, just to be different Hughie Jennings of the New York Giants was asked to pick an all-American baseball team.

Hughey, who has been connected with major-league baseball for better than thirty years, is certainly qualified to make the selection.

Always game, willing to take a chance, knowing his choices will meet with disfavor in many quarters, Jennings spoke thusly:

"The greatest infield I have ever seen in action would be made up of Sisler at first, Lajoie at second, Wagner at short and Frisch at third."

"My selection of Frisch over Jimmy Collins will no doubt occasion some surprise. Despite the fact that Frisch is now playing second, I regard third as his natural position and consider him a more valuable all-around player than Jimmy Collins."

"The outfield would be made up of Cobb, Speaker and Keeler. I have selected Keeler in preference to Ruth because I regard him as a greater team player."

"My battery would be Mathewson and Bresnahan. There never was a better one. Incidentally, I would be content to manage the team in any league."

Lee is said to be a second Maraville, and he'll make the big leaguers sit up and take notice, according to those who have seen him in action. Lee is a power both in batting and fielding.

Van Slykes Beat The Freeman

The Freeman Publishing Company again went down to the bottom of the pit when the Van Slyke & Horton Cigar Company team handed the printers a trimming in an Industrial League baseball battle at the Athletic Field Tuesday evening. The final tally was 8 to 7 with the type throwers on the short end.

The printers started the game off in fine style. In the opening inning they caught Smith, the twirler for the cigarmakers, for one hit and a run. In the second frame the type handlers landed out six safeties and five men crossed the rubber for tallies. No further damage was done until the final inning when a hit was landed out and one more score crossed the rubber.

The cigarmakers tied the score in the first inning by obtaining one safety from Huber and one tally chalked up. They then waited until the third frame when five hits were gathered and four tallies. In the fourth inning two of the cigar makers crashed out hits and three crossed the plate for runs. They then remained harmless for the remainder of the battle.

Huber twirled for the type throwers, pitching one of the best games twirled so far this season in the league. He handed out one free ticket to first base, hit one man and set down four batters by the strike-out route.

Smith was in command of the mound for the cigarmakers and showed up good. He handed out two free passes and retired three men by strikeouts.

This was one of the fastest games played in the league this season and a large crowd of fans turned out to witness the struggle.

Cassidy in the third inning gave the pit a ride for three sacks. This hit played heavy in the defeat of the printers.

Explaining "Gringo"

G.P. Weeks inclines to the view that "Gringo" was derived from the word "Greek." He says: "When English-speaking people began coming into Mexico they found the people with whom they came in contact unable to understand their language. Just as they themselves were unable to understand that of the Mexicans. When addressed by a native quite naturally they used the familiar expression, 'That is all Greek to me.' The word 'Greek' in Spanish is 'Gringo' (pronounced Gree-ay-go), and what more natural than that the Mexicans, hearing this word used so much, came to speak of the foreigners as 'Gringo-ay-go,' which easily enough became corrupted into 'gringos.' This explanation was heard wherever English-speaking foreigners were encountered."

Birth of Rocking Chair

Rocking chairs are commonly referred to as an American institution purely. They had their greatest development, of course, during the Nineteenth century, when they passed through the stage of makeshift rockers cut flat on top with the bottom in the form of an arc, to those which constituted an integral part of the chair, and from those to these modern sturdies of furniture called patent rockers. That was the beginning of their decadence, says the Boston Transcript. Rocking chairs are made now, but they are simple in construction, and the elaborate arrangements of springs and bows are known as new.

THE GLAD GIRL

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

YOU know the girl—all laughter, fun,
The life of every party, who
Can always answer everyone,
Dares do what anyone will do,
Who sings when all the rest are dumb,
And—well, the girl who makes things
hum?
Young man—I want to ask you, sir—
She's great, but would you marry her?

Life's rather serious and sad,
It has its problems, has its woes,
And more defeats a man has had
Than victories in life, I know;
And then a man will need a mate
Still undiscouraged, what his fate,
Who walks beside him up the hill
And bravely takes the good or ill.

A wife, it always seems to me,
Should have some depth of character;
Whatever need his need may be,
A husband ought to find in her,
Faith, courage, judgment, tenderness,
That is the sort of wife to bless.
The best of wives for both their sakes—
And that's the kind the glad girl makes.

Among the NOTABLES

JOSEPH LEIDY

JOSEPH LEIDY was one of the foremost naturalists of America, the more remarkable because he was self-taught. Practically every bit of his wonderful knowledge of plants and minerals and animals, he acquired himself without the aid of a teacher. He was born September 9, 1828, in Philadelphia. It seems that he had quite a talent for drawing and might, had he followed his first ambition, have become a well-known artist. At sixteen he left school and took a position as a drug clerk. While he was not waiting on customers, he began studying botany and mineralogy and comparative biology and such things and learning so rapidly that he was admitted to the University of Pennsylvania and took his degree as a medical doctor when he was only twenty-one.

He went abroad and came to notice, first, by his studies of terrestrial gastropods, which, translated into everyday language, is the form of animal life that crawls on its stomach. He made some valuable additions to science by his work on fossil horses and was the only American author to work on extinct vertebrates. According to recent professors, his most important paleontological contribution to the knowledge of the world was a paper on some vertebrate remains discovered in the phosphate beds of South Carolina. In spite of the dry-as-dust sound of his work, his researches led him into many interesting and romantic discoveries of dead forms of life. He died in 1891.

WHO SAID

"Generosity is the flower of justice."

THESE words of Nathaniel Hawthorne have a striking resemblance to that famous speech delivered by Portia in the court scene in "The Merchant of Venice."

Portia is asking Shylock to be merciful, and when he asks why, she replies:

The quality of mercy is not strained,
It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven
Upon the place beneath;
And earthy power doth then show
"Likest" God's.

When mercy seasons justice . . .
Nathaniel Hawthorne, one of the leading American literary figures, was born in Salem, Mass., July 4, 1804. He received his education in Bowdoin college and graduated from that institution in 1825.

His literary work is the result of the most careful study. Following his graduation from college he lived a life of retirement and devoted much time to writing tales and sketches. Few of these suited him and the majority of them were consigned to the fire. The survivors appeared in the magazines and newspapers of the day.

Hawthorne's romance "Fanshawe" was published anonymously in 1832, and in 1837 his "Twice-told Tales" appeared in book form. This work received its title from the fact that it was a collection of articles that had previously been published in periodicals, and thus was literally being "told" for the second time.

Hawthorne's political offices consisted of being the customs officer of the port of Boston; surveyor of the port of Salem; and American consul to Liverpool—an appointment he received from his old college chum, President Franklin Pierce.

Some of the best known works of this author are "Mosses from an Old Manse," "House of Seven Gables," and "The Scarlet Letter." Hawthorne died at Plymouth, N. H., May 18, 1864—Wynne D. McMurray.

Woodstock Wants People Clothed

Town Board's Resolution to Enforce Law Three Years Ago Still Effective Although Personnel of Board Has Changed.

To the Editor of The Freeman.
Sir:—Will you kindly give space in your paper for the following reply to an article published recently in various newspapers stating that the Woodstock town board gave a severe jolt to the freedom of its guests and citizens by passing an order forbidding the appearance on the streets of persons wearing only bathing suits.

First, the town board did not pass such an ordinance or order for the reason that it was unnecessary, in view of the fact that it is a state law. The board did pass a resolution to enforce the law in regard to the exposure of the person by insufficient and indecent attire.

Second, the board did cause to be posted copies of the law.

Third, if some visitors come to Woodstock with the intention of violating the law by appearing in public in indecent dress, it then becomes the duty of the town board to enforce the law.

Fourth, the resolution referred to was passed three years ago by the board in power at that time, and it had good results.

Fifth, a member of the board did request the state troopers to notify any violators of this law, and warn them that if they repeated the offense, arrests would be made.

Sixth, if this action of the board has stirred up opposition to the appearance of people in public who are indecently clothed, it has accomplished the desired result.

Seventh, two of the old members of the board are out but this resolution to enforce the state law was passed unanimously by the present board.

PARIS WEARS PASTEL JUMPER

FROCKS AND GAY FLOWERED CHIFFONS BY DAY

As the season reaches its height in Paris, there is a decided battle between two types of dress in the daytime. Many women cling to the convenient two-piece jumper dress in crepe de Chine or kasha. They wear it in all the lovely pastel shades, the fabric maker's art has produced this year.

Pale delicate pink, blue in all shades, from cornflower and periwinkle to turquoise, and a still paler gray blue, the color of early dawn, apple green and a pale gray green are worn, also a sea green paler than either of the previous two. The mauve range is not neglected. It is seen in all the vogue shades that had such a rage in hats earlier in the spring, in dainty cyclamen shades and the bright purple that the French call "revenge."

The second type of dress is distinctly feminine in allure, and is more dressy, this appears chiefly in printed chiffrons.

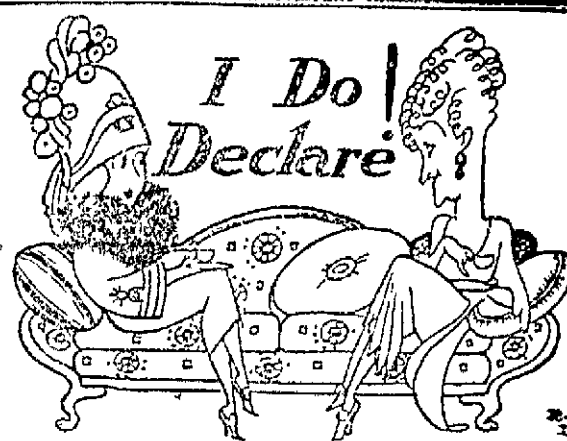

A Callot gown on this order, made in printed crepe de Chine in a fine close flower pattern, with the sleeves edged with two rows of narrow ribbon in two colors repeated in the design of the material, had the skirt adorned with pleated panels edged with the ribbon. These panels are curved in a semi-fan shape and overlap.

Some women are wearing plain colored pumps to match their gowns, but the greater majority choose the pale beige kid matching the stockings à la mode.

Ben Franklin's Idea

"House wifery is woman's noblest fame."—Benjamin Franklin.

"YOU know, my dear, how much I entertain. Friends do insist on inviting us out continually, and of course I love to have people here. But we used to have such trouble with that old-fashioned range of mine. Then Mrs. Jenkins told me about the new Thatcher 'Twin-Fire.' So I bought one—and my dear, we can cook a dinner for twelve in almost half the time. It's simply marvelous! And as convenient as can be!"

THE Thatcher "Twin-Fire" Range combines coal and gas in one unit. Coal and gas sections may be used separately or together. This Range has more gas equipment than many "all gas" ranges, having two large gas burners in the upper part. The body top has five gas burners that are adjustable for the varying gas pressures in different localities.

Male Choir's Good Work

Mozart's "Magic Flute" has been given complete by a male choir of Tormorden, England. The difficult soprano arias of Pamina, Papagena, and Queen of Night were done cleverly by boy members of the choir, and without changes of text. A really remarkable achievement. Tormorden, a town of about twenty-five thousand inhabitants, is midway between Manchester and Harrogate.

Even Kings Fix Prices

Price fixing on the part of governments was not a new idea when it was used in the World-war time of economic stress and since during the reconstruction period. King Henry III of England was one of the early rulers to use the right. He caused an ordinance to be passed prohibiting how makers from selling their best bows at more than 3 shillings 4 pence each.

War on Rats

Another effort to decrease the rat population of the world is to be made by the United States department of health. All vessels arriving in American ports will be disinfected twice a year with a powerful gas turned into the ship's holds. This "gassing," it is hoped, will keep down the rodents and consequently bubonic plague.

Balsam Pillow

To make a balsam pillow first dry out the balsam and then strip the needles from the twigs. Wear old gloves for this work. Use thick material such as linen crash for the pillow cover, as the needles will pierce through this material. Be sure to get genuine balsam, as balsam and spruce closely resemble balsam, but do not have the refreshing odor which is the chief value of the balsam.

Producing Liquid Air

Liquid air is a transparent, limpid and intensely cold liquid, slightly blue in color, and of about the same density as water. It is prepared by subjecting air to great pressure and then cooling it by its own expansion to a temperature below the boiling point of its constituents (nitrogen, 194 degrees centigrade; oxygen, 183 degrees centigrade). Its chief use is as a refrigerant.

Ancient Pastime

Dibs is the English name of a game dating from remote antiquity, which consists in throwing up the joint bones of the legs of sheep and catching them as they descend, first on the palm of the hand and then on the back of the hand. In Scotland small stones are substituted and the game is known as chuck. It is similar to the American game of jackstones.

Cause for Worry

Harold had been silent for all of five minutes when his mother inquired, "Why so silent?" The youngster sighed and looked out the window, persisted his mother. "No," replied Harold, with another lugubrious sigh from the depths of his soul. "Nothing is worrying me," he replied. "I am afraid I've asked all the questions there are to ask."

Reason Not Enough

Strangely enough, it is not in our reason that moral life has its being; and the who would let reason govern his life would be the most wretched of men. There is not a virtue, a beautiful thought, or a generous deed, but has most of its roots blotted far away from that which can be understood or explained.—Masterlinck.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, July 15.—With America scoring an overnight gain of 2 1/2 points and advancing to 202 1/2, a new high for all time, the stock market today was buoyant, particularly in industrials, steel and copper stocks.

New highs were also established in Fisk Rubber at 22 1/2, Keystone Tire and Rubber at 3 1/2, Electric Power and Light at 39 1/2, North America at 58 1/2, Timken Roller Bearing at 46 1/2 and Standard Gas and Electric at 57 1/2.

All the steel stocks ruled higher. U. S. Steel went to a new high level for the movement at 118 1/2.

Trading in the industrial group was active throughout the session. Havana Electric advanced 4 1/2 points to 187 1/2. U. S. Steel Iron Pipe sold four points higher at 158 and Savage Arms jumped to 55 1/2, a gain of 6 1/2 points from last night's close. Fractional advances were made in copper stocks led by American Smelting Refining, Anaconda, Kennecott and Chile copper.

Motors after showing a reactionary tendency in early trading made some gains later in the day. Mack Truck advanced 2 1/2 to 187 1/2.

Tails trading lacked special features, with prices not much changed from yesterday's close. New York, New Haven and Hartford sold at 32. Oil stocks were inactive. Call money rates eased off fractionally to 3 1/2 per cent. shortly after the noon period. Opening rates were 3 1/2.

Polish Minister Scoffs at War

Recurrent Rumors of War in Europe Not Founded on Exact Facts or Conditions, He Says.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Swampscott, Mass., July 16.—Declaring the trend of European statesmanship to be definitely for peace, Count Alex Sczysnki, Polish minister of foreign affairs, in his first formal statement to be issued in this country, scoffed today at the danger of more war in Europe.

The minister is in Swampscott to attend a luncheon at White Court, tendered in his honor by President Coolidge.

The luncheon guest list included: Hilpoit Gltwic, charge of the Polish embassy; Assistant Secretary of State J. Butler Wright, James C. White, Republican, national committeeman; John Hays Hammond, of Gloucester and Meville E. Stone, counselor emeritus of the Associated Press.

"In my opinion," declared Count Sczysnki, "which is based on direct and constant observation of European politics, I feel confident that there is no real danger of war in Europe. There are, it is true, frequently recurring war rumors but I am satisfied such rumors are not founded on exact facts and conditions."

"The policy of Poland is one of peace," he said.

"We have no dispute with any of our neighbors which cannot be settled by peaceful means," he asserted.

Count Sczysnki will remain in the United States until August 5. An itinerary has been mapped out for him that will take him to Washington, New York, Chicago, Albany, Williamstown, Mass., and Philadelphia.

Numerous functions have been arranged in these cities. In Chicago he will be the guest of the mayor, at Williamstown he will address the International Institute of Politics and at Philadelphia he will be the guest of Samuel G. Vaulchain of the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

The new Egyptian minister had an engagement to present his letters of credence to the president. Charles D. Hilles, Republican national committeeman of New York also had an engagement to call at White Court to talk with President Coolidge.

direct from the aerial binding post to start off the vario-coupler (opposite the end which goes to the grid), then disconnect lead from aerial to condenser, and connect rotor plates of the condenser to the ground binding post. Drawing of set connected this way is shown in Fig. 2.

Tap switch can be set anywhere from 8 to 26 turns from aerial, a .0005 or .00025 condenser may be used, tuning is very sharp, gives more volume than the single circuit receiver, is selective, and distance is more than doubled.

With one stage audio, the designer heard such stations as: PW, Havana,

Cuba; 6KW, Tuluacu, Cuba, (2,000 miles); WFAA, Dallas, Texas, 2,200 miles; WSE, Atlanta, Ga., 1,400 miles; KFI, Los Angeles, Cal., 3,000 miles; CFCA, Toronto, Ont.; WOS, Jefferson City, Mo.; WOO, Davenport, Iowa; WOAL, San Antonio, Texas; WOAY, Omaha, Neb.; KFLZ, Atlantic, Iowa; KFJK, Bristol, Okla., and over a hundred other stations; all these stations come in regular. KFI came in every cold night in February and March.

When Your Headphones Should Have Attention

Headphones that have been in service for a year or more should be inspected by removing the cap and diaphragm. The mounting screws holding the horseshoe magnet in place should be tightened. Remove any dirt or particles of steel that may be collecting on pole pieces. The diaphragm should be inspected to ascertain if it has become bent and if so, it should be replaced with a new one. The screws holding the telephone cord tips should be tightened, but not removed, and reversed, as this will disturb the polarity of the unit affecting signals. If the diaphragm has become weakened and touches the pole pieces it should be turned over on its reverse side, which will correct the trouble.

Care in Placing Holes in Composition Panels

All holes in composition panels should be large enough so that the screws fit loosely to prevent binding. Sometimes after holes are drilled in a panel and the instruments are ready to be assembled, the panel cracks when tightening up the screws. Baseboards also are often split by the screws used to hold the various instruments in place. This is particularly likely to happen if there are several screws near together which are in line with the same grain in the wood. Avoid this by scattering the screws as much as possible.

Radio Hints That Will Be of Interest to Fans

Switches on a set should be kept clean. Whenever possible, run the aerial over a vacant lot. Output from every tube goes from plate and filament. Copper aerial wires will sag considerably in warm weather. A crystal detector cannot be used in a regenerative hookup. The plate voltage is too high when a soft bluish glow appears in the tubes. A piece of emery cloth tied in the rubber end of a lead pencil makes a good socket-cleaning cleaner. One of the great causes of interference is the misuse of regenerative receivers.

Electric Company Extends Service

The Kingston Gas & Electric Company is busy extending electric service throughout Ulster county. In West Hurley the service is being extended to six or seven consumers on the new development opened by County Clerk John H. Saxe.

Work of extending the lines from Bearsville to and through Wittenberg, coming out on the state road near Cold Brook, will also be shortly started by the company. Residents who have signed up for the service would do well to start wiring their houses at once so as to be ready when the service goes through.

The electric company has just completed extending the service from Tilton to Springtown, and is starting the work of extending the service from the Stone Ridge road to and through Lomontville.

Work is progressing on the extension from Saugerties to West Saugerties.

Coolidge Anxious To Prevent Strike

Suspension of Operations in Coal Fields to Be Stoutly Opposed—President May Summon Hoover Also for Conference.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Swampscott, Mass., July 16.—All of the powers of the Federal government is to be concentrated in an effort to prevent a suspension of labor in the anthracite fields.

President Coolidge took the initial step in his campaign to this end today when he summoned Secretary of Labor Davis to his summer home here for conference over the week end.

Representatives of both the labor and commerce departments have been at Atlantic City observing the conferences there between the anthracite scale committee of the United Mine Workers and the committee of operators.

They have reported that the deadlock already created indicates a walkout when the existing wage agreement expires on August 30. The operators, President Coolidge has been informed, have failed to secure acceptances of their suggestion that work be continued and any agreement eventually entered into be made retroactive and subject to arbitration.

The officials of the United Mine Workers reject this proposal because it would weaken their cause.

It is because of this threatening situation that the president has sent for his labor secretary. The latter had planned a European trip, but Mr. Coolidge does not want him to undertake it unless the danger of a hard coal strike is removed.

It is his hope that Davis may be able to suggest some plan for executive action.

Later on, it is planned to summon Secretary Hoover to Swampscott, to assist in whatever program the president and Davis may evolve.

Bringing Florida Mortgage Investments To New York

Florida is making vigorous efforts to care properly for its thousands of new residents. The building program is of immense magnitude but based on sound economic principles.

Eighty per cent of such building, as in other parts of the country, is done on borrowed money. Constant demand for mortgage loans maintains high interest charges.

To provide maximum safety for Northern investors, this House guarantees the payment of principal and interest on its First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds.

To assist those interested in receiving at first hand reliable information with reference to Florida and our bonds, we have appointed

The generous interest return and guaranteed safety of our bonds warrants the serious consideration of every careful investor. A postal card or telephone call will bring Mr. Williams co-operation, without obligation on your part.

June Price for

League Milk

No Advertisement Less Than 25 Cents.

League Base Price $1.80 Net for June—July Selling Price of Fluid Milk Increased 47 Cents as of July 20.

League farmers will receive a net pool base price of $1.80 for their June milk, according to announcement made at the league offices in New York. As this is the base price for 3 per cent milk at the 201-210 mile zone, prices to individual dairymen will vary according to location and butter fat differentials. This price includes 10 cents for certificates of indebtedness.

This base price for June is 48 cents higher than the average butter value of 100 pounds of 3 per cent milk during the month. It is $2.95 higher than the average June pool price received by members of the association from 1921 to 1924, inclusive.

Announcement is also made by the association that the selling price of Class I or fluid milk will be increased from $2.33 per 100 pounds to $2.80, effective July 20.

Blame Golf for Slump in Sports

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, July 16.—Golf is undergoing a struggle for its existence among the younger generation of Englishmen.
There is shaping a campaign to bring golf into disrepute as a game for young Englishmen, and all because there has been a decided slump in the sporting successes of England of late.
The claim is being advanced that young Englishmen are devoting their time to golf to the detriment of other games, and that as a result England is shy of good polo players, good tennis players, good fighters and even good cricketers.
Fathers are even offering their sons sums of money if on their 21st birthday they can say they have never had a golf club in their hands. Sporting editors and literary editors are deriding golf as a game for the young.

Golfers Criticized.
English sportsmen who take up golf as a side line and a diversion are severely criticized in the newspapers.
"You don't find the Tildens, the Johnstons, the Vincents, Richards nor any great lawn tennis players consecrating their winters or weekends to putting," said L. J. Mares, editor of the National Review.
"Golf and tennis 'swear at' one another. Had Mr. Tilden played as much golf as a famous English player I could mention the American champion would not be where he is now—at the top of the tree. Had the Englishmen played as little golf as Mr. Tilden the Blue Ribbon of the game need not have crossed the Atlantic."

"Is it not somewhat suggestive that almost the only English champion of recent years should be Miss K. McKane, who only 'came into her own' in proportion as she relaxed golf in favor of a fast and dashing winter game requiring perfect footwork?"
The campaign against golf is making some headway among the younger generation, but not a great deal. Older golf enthusiasts are encouraging it, for it is disconcerting to a portly week-end golfer to have hard-driving youngsters still in their teens clogging up the courses.

Is Baseball Wanted Here?

Question Will Be Answered Friday Night At Fair Grounds When Benefit Game Is Staged With D. & H. Generals.
The fans of Kingston will have a chance to show their loyalty and support the Colonials at the big benefit game which will be played at the Kingston Fair Grounds Friday evening when the Colonials meet the D. & H. Generals. On the attendance at the game Friday will depend the future of baseball in Kingston so far as the Colonials are concerned. The fans and business men of the city will have an opportunity to show just how bad they want baseball and it is expected that there will be a big attendance. A large number of tickets have been sold in advance for the game indicating that the people of the city want baseball. For the business people baseball means a big advertisement for the town and to the fans baseball means clean, wholesome entertainment.

Art Smith, the pitcher from out Boston way who hurled them over for the Red Sox and scored a defeat over the Colonials, has arrived in town and is now wearing a Colonial uniform. Art is expected to be in shape for a tryout about Sunday and is heralded as a great addition to the Colonial pitching staff. Smith is reputed to have the goods and should bolster up the local team considerably.
Paul Kinney will get the assignment for the benefit game, Friday against the D. & H. Generals. The Generals are one team which the Colonials seem to match up with. The railroaders are able to put it over the Colonials from time to time and no better team could have been brought here for the big game tomorrow.
The tickets sold at one dollar each entitle the holder to a seat in the grandstand but the seating capacity is limited and it will be a matter of first come first served. The game will start at 6:30 o'clock as usual.

Tagging Major League Bases

The stampeding Athletics rolled back into first place by taking a double fall out of the White Sox, 9 to 7, and 11 to 5, getting 28 hits off five Chicago pitchers.
Bancroft gave an object lesson to his young men by winning the game for the Braves with a triple in the third and subsequently saving it from the Pirates by his glittering fielding. Score 4 to 3.
Undue familiarity with Haines resulted in four runs in the sixth inning and a 7 to 3 decision for the Giants over the Cardinals, leaving the Giants just five points from the league lead.
The Indians and Yanks shared and shared alike on a double morsel, the Indians consuming the first, 5 to 4, on Wainwright's fumble in the twelfth and the Yanks beating Miller and Speece in the second.

A seven run rally in the second staked the Cubs to a 8 to 3 verdict over the Phils, the game being washed overboard in the sixth by rain.
Rutheer returned to the paths of the righteous but the fatted calf was on his own leg. The Tigers climbed aboard his left hand at critical intervals and punched their way to a 5 to 2 victory over the Senators, dropping the latter to second place.
Williams smote his twenty second homer of the season during the general excitement continuous to the Browns' 11 to 3 victory over the Red Sox, Windfield having nothing or even less.

Grimes's salivary gland was working in its old time form and the Dodgers beat the Reds 5 to 2.

King's Power Nominal

In England the vote is a remnant of the more extensive power formerly exercised by the King, but which has gradually been cut down until only the negative power of disapproval is left. Since 1705 the right has never been exercised. None, however, does not imply that the power does not exist at the present time, although the system of responsible cabinet government makes its use out of place.

Dempsey Soon To Enter Ring

Michigan City, Indiana Selected for Champion's Appearance This Year—Madden, Fitzsimmons or Burke the Victims.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 16.—Jack Dempsey's first and only bout this year will take place at Michigan City, Indiana, in September with a heavyweight martyr, selected after the manner of a man who goes into a Fifth Avenue jeweler and comes out with something very tasty in choice gun metal. The candidate for the leather guillotine will be chosen from among Bartley Madden, Young Bob Fitzsimmons and Martin Burke.
He might be referred to as an innocent bystander, if it wasn't for the fact that he will not stand long enough, if at all, to be called anything.

Gene Tunney is a possibility for the Michigan City date but it is understood Dempsey wants some one who will fall with furious abandon and is guaranteed not to bite.

As for Harry Wills, he will be taken on, if ever, just as soon as the champion trims ship by casting off his merry manager, John Leo Kearns, in September, 1926.

These were the indicated developments today of the first 12 hours since Dempsey's return to America, following a tour of Europe that failed to fill the financial bag as adequately as the champion would have wished.

He is in the market for ready money; hence the Michigan City focus pocus.

As for Kearns and Dempsey, they are just little pals together—up to and including a certain point. That point will be reached if Dempsey decides to step out with Wills, Kearns, it seems, is not to cut that particular melon.

"Kearns still is my manager and I will abide by any matches he makes for me," Dempsey said today. "His contract with me runs until September 1, 1926."

When would Dempsey meet Wills? Well, that was a bout for which he needed plenty of preparation. He'd probably be ready by September, 1926. Would he renew his contract with Kearns? Well, now, he just didn't know about that. The writer presumes not.

"Anyhow, my speed and boxing need sharpening up," he continued. "I must have a warm up bout before taking on Wills. Anybody knows that and, if the New York Commission is fair, it will admit it."

"Wills couldn't do anything with Madden. As an opponent for me, Bartley ought to afford a pretty good comparison between Wills's ability and mine. Young Bob is another tough one. I would like to take on Tunney, if I can see my way clear to going it."

"But make up your mind to this: I'm going to fight some one before the end of the summer. I like to fight and there is nothing to stop me. No movie contract, no nothing. Mrs. Dempsey doesn't object because she knows fighting is my game."

"FATHER" KNEW NOTHING OF CHAMPION'S ILLNESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Elizabeth, N. J., July 16.—Raefer Gellido, claiming to be the father of Pancho Villa, world's heavyweight champion who died in San Francisco, today was very bitter against Frank Churchill, the Filipino's manager, for failing to apprise him of the illness that resulted in the boxer's death. At the home of friends at 436 Franz Josef Avenue, he said he knew nothing of Villa's illness until he read of his death in the newspapers.
Gellido, a day laborer, bears a striking resemblance to the dead man he claims as son. He said they were reunited in New York in 1923 after 18 years, declaring that his wife had deserted him in the Philippines when Pancho was 11 months old.

MRS. DEMPSEY SAYS JACK CAN WHIP ANYBODY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 16.—Some cynical persons may doubt the ability of Jack Dempsey to lick Harry Wills, his negro challenger, but among them is not Mrs. Estelle Taylor Dempsey.
"Of course Jack is going to fight again," she told interviewers today, thereby denying that she had put her small foot down on any rough work that might be calculated to spoil Jack's synthetic nose. "I hope he will fight a white man, but white or black, I know he can whip anybody in the ring."
